

Nashville Union.

BUSINESS NOTICE

The following Notices will be charged at the rates annexed; to be paid for when handed in:

MARRIAGE NOTICES—OF TEN LINES, &c.	$1.50
NOTICE OF BIRTH—OF ONE LINE, &c.	10 cent
NOTICE OF DEATH—OF ONE LINE, &c.	10 cent
NOTICE OF FUNERAL OR BURIAL, when not exceeding twenty lines, $1.50, over twenty lines to one hundred words, $2.00, per line, and so on, at the rate of 15 cent. per line.
ANNOUNCEMENTS OR FADDERIES
FOR COUNTY OFFICERS	6 cent
FOR STATE OFFICERS	10 cent
FOR CITY	10 cent

Cash required in advance for all advertisements, unless by special agreement.

Advertisers will be charged in the Local Column at the rate of twenty cents per line.

Letters on business and all retail sales, must be addressed to the "Publishers of the Nashville Union." Correspondence on business, however, must be addressed to E. C. MURRAY, Editor.

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 27, 1862.

We learn that there are a number of cases of scarlet fever in Edgefield.

Gen. DUMONT'S Late Expedition.

Among other items of interest, we mention the late expedition of Gen. DUMONT into East Tennessee.

On the 11th, he received information that the enemy was near Woodbury, and the General determined to intercept him if possible, and accordingly left Murfreesboro', on the 12th, with the 3rd Minnesota, 60th and 74th Ohio, 8th and 21st Kentucky, and 11th Michigan Regiments, and eight pieces of artillery, and 600 cavalry, making in all about 3000 men. But on arriving at Woodbury, at 5 o'clock, on the evening of the 12th, learned that the "chivalrous" soldiers of STARNES, HANNS & Co., had "skedaddled" for the mountains, having learned that the "Yankees" were enroute for McMinnville and still further east. The column moved on to McMinnville on the 13th, and then learned that STARNES was at Pikeville, 38 miles across the mountains. The General being determined that no stone should be left unturned to overhaul the enemy, immediately dispatched 600 cavalry, four pieces of artillery and the 3rd Minnesota regiment, all under command of Col. LISTER, to Pikeville, the distance being made in 16 hours. But on arriving at Pikeville, found that the enemy had left for Kingston, enroute to Knoxville. Gen. DUMONT in the mean time marched with the rest of the column 18 miles up the mountain, in order to be accessible in case of an attack on Col. LISTER, but on learning that the enemy had left Pikeville, the column marched back to McMinnville, where they rested two days and then took up the line of march for Murfreesboro'. This march is considered, by military men, one of an extraordinary nature, but the prospect of a fight, and the energy of their gallant General cheered the men on, and the march was made without a murmur. Great credit is due to the officers in charge of this expedition. Though they had no fight, we have the assurance that the enemy is driven beyond the mountain.

The jolliest and most independent dealers in our city are our market people. Whoever else fails of selling their wares, they are seen to sell out without the least trouble. The market man knows in the morning to a five cent slush-plaster the sum he will take home at dinner. His only trouble is the importunity and annoyance of the customers who throng and jostle around him. The jam begins at day-break and lasts three or four hours when everything edible is swept from the market. Not a potato nor a pound of butter, nor a beet is to be seen. Not a cat-lish swings in torment from his pole; not a skin-bone remains for a blue-bottle to buzz around. Nothing remains except the fragrant breath of the onion which still haunts the deserted market-house even as the scent of the withered rose lingers in the broken vase. Who wouldn't be a market man in Nashville?

THEATRE.—BUNNETT OF CLAUDE HAMILTON.—As our drama-loving friends are aware, the gentleman whose name heads this article, has occupied the position of leading man at our theatre during the present season. And that he has sustained it well, and with great credit to himself, the nightly applause of the audience and their cheerful shouts of welcome at his appearance, clearly attests. Our managers, Messrs. DUFFIELD & SANDS, than whom we have never had better, have in nothing proved their managerial judgment with more certainty, than in the selection of Mr. HAMILTON for the position he has held. Mr. HAMILTON is no stranger to the citizens of Nashville, for he has several times visited us during the past few years. When first he came amongst us his was but a minor station, yet even in that he gave evidence of the superior talent he has since shown. By industry and untiring devotion to his profession, he has attained his present proud place, and clearly proved that he is capable of a still higher one, which we doubt not will yet achieve. Let our citizens to-night do both themselves and him justice, by giving such a hearty benefit, as will make him always remember it as one of the brightest nights in his career. Independent of the beneficiary's claims, the bill itself is a splendid attraction. It is no less than the great French drama of the Comte de Bragelonne, with its grand combination of Song, Dance, and Play, its wonderful magical effects, its Physiological developments and startling denouement, including the celebrated moving Gray's Yard Scene, concluding with the Apotheosis of the Brothers. If merit combined with attraction is a subject to "draw," Mr. HAMILTON will have, as he deserves, the house filled from Pil to Dame. Go every body.

Hang Out Your Banners on the Outer Wall!

Our readers will see by the programme given in our columns, that a lively time may be expected on the glorious "Fourth." Every patriot should unite in the celebration. Let the city flutter with flags, until it looks like a vast flower garden spanned with rainbows. Get your flags ready!

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

According to adjournment, the Board met yesterday evening, President BRUEN in the Chair.

Alderman ROBIN offered the following resolutions, which were passed unanimously:

Resolved by the City Council—1st. That it is the sense of the City Council that all business houses should be closed on the Fourth of July from 9 o'clock a.m. until 3 p.m.

2d. That all church and public bells should be rung at sunrise on the Fourth of July. That all business, public officers and those in charge of the various churches, be and they are hereby requested to hang out of their windows and doors the Stars and Stripes on the coming Fourth of July.

3d. That these resolutions be published in the city papers.

Alderman MAYFIELD offered the following, which was adopted, and that, with the above, were transmitted to the Common Council for concurrence:

Resolved by the City Council—That the citizens of Nashville be and are hereby requested to hang out of their windows and doors the Stars and Stripes on the coming Fourth of July.

The resolution passed by the Common Council at its last meeting, concerning the preparation and publication of the financial condition of the city was concurred in.

A petition from T. J. RUGLEY, asking permission to make certain improvements, was granted.

The Council then adjourned to the next regular meeting.

DISTINGUISHED ARRIVALS.

Ex-Governor WM. B. CAMPBELL and Hon. JORDAN STORE are in this City, stopping at the Swansea House.

A petition from R. L. PARKS, in reference to relief from certain taxes, was referred to the Finance Committee; and one from T. L. RUGLEY, asking permission to make certain improvements, was granted.

Mr. CECILIA'S ACADEMY.—Our large edition was exhausted on Thursday morning long before the demand was met. Our Weekly Union will, however, contain the prominent articles of our daily issue, and among them the graphic report of St. Cecilia's Exhibition from the pen of E. E. JONES.

The New York World says that it is not at all in favor, unless absolute necessity requires it, of enrolling blacks as federal soldiers, even in regiments by themselves; but, for the sake of showing that the Americans in the revolutionary struggle felt about it, we have been at the pains of hunting up an enactment of their General Assembly at its session begun at Richmond, October 20, 1783. It seems that the ancestors of the present F. E. V. not only had no objection to the military service of the negro, but that he was allowed to take the place of the white man in regularly organized white regiments; and that slaves in this way served as substitutes for masters.

The Grand Jury of Fayette county, Ky., at its recent session, found ten bills for treason against the Commonwealth, against JOHN C. BRECKINRIDGE, WILLIAM PRESTON, ROGER W. HANSON, ROBERT W. WOOLLEY, ROBERT J. BRECKINRIDGE, JR., JOHN H. MORGAN, and other persons too tedious to mention.

President BROWN took the Chair and called the Convention to order, stating the objects of the meeting, and declaring the chair ready to receive nominations for Members of the Board of Education for the coming year, when Councilman COLE nominated the following named gentlemen:

F. B. FORBES, H. H. BARKER, M. H. HOWARD, M. G. BRIEN, M. M. MONAHAN, M. G. L. CLAIBORNE, J. B. KNOWLES, J. S. FOWLER.

All of whom was declared duly elected, when the Convention adjourned, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

COMMON COUNCIL.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes for a quorum, the senior Councilman of the Second Ward, Esquire SOUTHARD, was called to the Chair. An informal consultation was then held by the members of both Boards, which lasted about half an hour, when the Council was called to order, the Minutes read, approved, and signed, and the Aldermen returned to their room, and adjourned to their next regular meeting.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Common Council held their regular meeting yesterday evening. After waiting some forty minutes